Campaign a Credit To Hawaii

B. W. BRECKONS. Vice Chairman Territorial Republican Committee

The results of the election are gratifying not only to the Republicans, but to al' civizons of the Territory.

With almost a negligible campaign fund, with no "ranners," with a rather marked spathy on the part of our "leading citizens," the Republican party won out.

Results show that voters study the administration of affairs closely, and yoke according to their ideas as to how these affairs have been administered.

By this election Hawaii has demonstrated its ability to govern itself, and has made a great stride towards statehood. We need not be ashamed of either the manner in which the election was conducted or of the result. The Hawaiian veters, and they are the majority, have demonstrated their intelligence and their benesty.

have seen the good which can be a complished by voting the straight Republican ticket.

publican ticket.

The overwhelming Republican vote which was east today shows that the voters of Hawaii have awakened to the fact that "Good Government" can only be accomplished by electing Republicans to office.

Personally, I appreciate the confidence that the voters have shown in me. I assure them and those who did not vote for me that I will be in Washington attending to my daties all of the time—in other words, "I'll be on the joh" all of the time; working for the best interests of Hawaii net. Hawaii has a great future. It is up to those who were elected today to make this possibility a reality.

CROWDS WATCHED RETURNS COME IN

Lack of interest noticeable during the day was overcome last night when the returns began to come in.

From a few minutes to six o'clock when The Advertiser posted its first bulletins, until after twelve o'clock, crowds were assembled on the streets. Hundreds stood on the street or side-walks, or sat in automobiles, in front of The Advertiser and followed the election returns.

The Advertiser succeeded in posting these returns as rapidly as they came in. At seven-thirty it flashed the first concession of defeat—McCandless'. An ondous Republican vote.

Disappointment awaited them even in those most essentially Demogratic presents, the ninth of the fifth district, for instance, which for years have gone against the Republicans by a three or even a four to one vote.

As early as eleven o'clock last night John Wilson, campaign manager for the Demograts, was willing to concede the territorial ticket to the Republicans. Three hours before this, McCandless admitted Kuhio had him badly beaten.

Concession of defeat—McCandless'. An hour later appeared a bulletin reporting the Demograts had conceded the Republicans a landslide.

While those bulletins were being posted, a depressed and very cheerless crowd sat in the Demogratic headquarters. In this crowd there were men and women. Some of the women carried babies in their arms. The defeat of the Demograts had a more apparent effect on the women than on the men.

The men stood or sat around gloomily. Many of them were candidates for office and saw their defeat written in

On the county ticket the proposition was different, and though the seventeen half the returns were in. Once in a while was different, and though the seventeen precincts heard from at mininght gave the Republicans a strong lead, with John Lane 350 votes shead of Mayor, Fern, many of the Democrats held out that they had a chance of cleeting several of their candidates.

Mayor Fern at this time practically idmitted his defeat. He declared that aundreds of votors had refrained from to the contrary. These figures showed that Kahio had swept the island and attributed his defeat to this fact. He swamped McCandless—and that the delegate vote was carrying down the whole ticket. "They are voting against me," ex-plained McCandless, "and that means the whole ticket goes down. Besides, the straight ticket is being voted." This was indicated early in the day when at virtually all the polling places comments were made on the rapidity with which a voter prepared his ballot.

At the Republican quarters nothing but enthusiasm and stout optilism prevailed Hourly their success became more indisputable.
"The whole ticket is ours!" they ex-claimed early in the evening.
